

Dear Valued Supplier,

We hope this correspondence finds you safe and well. General Atomics (GA) is closely monitoring weather in the upcoming months, and we are aware that certain business operations may be affected. Remember, successful performance of a GA Order may be critical to the national defense.

To support you during this time, GA has identified potential contingency plans that may be available to help mitigate risks related to your shipments to GA. Please see below, bearing in mind that successful performance remains your responsibility:

- Risk Assessments: Evaluate your facilities and supply chain dependencies to identify potential impacts from winter weather and storms. Inform your GA purchasing representatives of any concerns or delays.
- Establish Communication Protocols: Set up communication channels for timely updates to GA regarding potential impacts.
- Re-route Shipments: If your facility is not affected but the shipment route is affected, work with logistics providers to identify an alternative route or mode of transportation for purchase orders.
- Adjust Purchase Order Schedule: If you are unable to comply with a scheduled delivery, inform your GA purchasing representative.

Please contact your GA purchasing representative should any Orders be disrupted by upcoming weather. If you have any problems, questions, or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact your purchasing representative for assistance.

Nothing in this correspondence is, or is intended to be, understood or relied upon as direction or authority to deviate from any of the terms and conditions of any Order.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.
